

Response from American Elements for the CNT Information Call-In

Gentlemen-

Last week Mr. Saebfar, Mr. Kang and Ms. Zhang of your office visited our office to discuss the new Call-In program for Carbon Nanotubes and the proposed upcoming Call-In for other nanomaterials. They are copied here and again thank you for your time. As explained to them, AE has not offered Carbon Nanotubes or Carbon Nanoparticles since early 2008 and have no plans to re-offer them in the future. For this reason, a response was not given at the time we received the above-referenced letter. Mr. Saebfar suggested that even if we are not offering them, we should still advise you of this. We are offering other nanomaterials which we discussed with Mr. Saebfar, such as gold and iron nanoparticles, which may be materials the next Call-In will cover. Note further American Elements does not produce any nanomaterials. We do offer the nanomaterials of other producers who we discussed with Mr. Saebfar at the time of his visit last week. I hope this response is helpful and we apologize for not making this clear earlier.

Best Regards,
Mike Silver
